Many of these people may be all right, but I am sure that most of them are a lot of scalawags who are trying any method they can think of to bleed money out of me."

"Day by day the popularity of the electric is increasing," says T. Randolph Rourne, manager of the Milburn Sales Company. "This is largely because, in days gone by, electric cars were built very heavy. This was due to the necessity of carrying large batteries, if one wished to cover any mileage on a charge. Also, the cost of this type of vehicle was beyond the range of many. Today electric cars are being manufactured—among them the Milburn. three models of which we have on display at our electric show this week—which are as light as the average gas car and lighter than many.
